2012 STATE PLAN SURVEY

Our online State Plan survey is closed. Thank you for your participation; we collected 785 responses from throughout the state. We will begin analyzing the responses in the upcoming weeks. Please stay tuned for more updates as we take the next steps in crafting the new statewide preservation plan for 2012-2017. The plan will assess the current status of historic resources and preservation efforts in North Carolina, examine needs and issues affecting preservation, and articulate goals and objectives to serve as a general guide for the continued preservation of the state's historic resources over the next five years.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED?

Considering a roof replacement, a kitchen or bathroom remodel? Need to spruce up your commercial property? Send Lucille.Pittman@ncdcr.gov an email requesting an information packet on state and federal historic preservation tax credits for your historic property.

WELCOME RAMONA BARTOS

On September 1, 2011, Ramona Murphy Bartos assumed duties as the new Deputy State Historic Preservation Officer of North Carolina and administrator of the State Historic Preservation Office. A southeast Georgia native, Bartos was previously an attorney in private practice, concentrating in civil litigation, real estate, and municipal law. As a former city attorney and historic preservation consultant, she has a particular interest in local preservation commissions and programs.

Since 2008, Ramona has also served as a speaker and legal trainer for the Commission Assistance Mentoring Program of the National Alliance of Preservation Commissions. She earned a Bachelor of Arts in History and International Studies from Emory University, and a joint Master of Historic Preservation from the School of Environmental Design of the University of Georgia and Juris Doctor from the School of Law of the University of Georgia.

Join us in welcoming Ramona to North Carolina's State Historic Preservation Office!

SUNSET THEATER NATIONAL REGISTER

We are proud to announce the Sunset Theater in Asheboro has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The new certification provides property owners the opportunity to utilize historic preservation tax incentives.
